A talk was planned on the occasion of Teacher's Day (05-09-2020) under the aegis of IEEE Bombay Chapter - Educational Activities. Prof. V. M Gadre, Professor, Department of Electrical Engineering IIT Bombay and Prof. Milind Khanapurkar, Dean R&D G. H. Rasoni College of Engineering Nagpur delivered the talk. The final year undergraduate students of IIT Bombay: Ms. Jeetika Singla, Mr. Uddhav Aggarwal, and Mr. Dhruv Ishan Bhardwaj also contributed in the session with their outlook into the ongoing online teaching learning experiment in the form of massive open online course (MOOC) for the course Digital Signal Processing and its applications. They discussed how current teaching-learning challenges in ongoing pandemic situations can be overcome through such initiatives. The talk was very useful and gave important pointers for initiating faculty-student collaborations across institutions in online education mode.

In order to have a smooth session, a pre-recording session was also arranged on the previous day i.e. 4th September 2020 from 2.15 pm - 5.30 pm via Google Meet.

The talk and pre-recording session was arranged by Dr. Anita S. Diwakar, Co-Chair (Mumbai) Educational Activities-IEEE Bombay Chapter and her team of student members Ms. Nidhi Shingade and Ms. Mayuri Panat. We are confident that many such events will be arranged in the coming time by IEEE Bombay Chapter-Educational Activities (EA). Prof. S. V Kulkarni, EA Chair-IEEE Bombay Chapter helped immensely in conducting this session.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Anand S. Gharpure for timely help and support in arranging and recording of the session on the Webex platform. We are thankful to Prof. D. Suryanarayana, Chair IEEE Bombay Section and the entire IEEE Bombay Chapter for giving us all the support in planning and executing this event.
